LMC 3 50ft Landing Craft & 4x4 Off-Road Vehicle

Am 06. Juni 1944 begannen die Alliierten mit der Landung in der Normandie. Dieser Stichtag wird allgemein als D-Day bezeichnet. 2014 jährt sich dieses kriegsentscheidende Ereignis nunmehr zum 70ten mal.

Gut 8.000 Exemplare des LCM3 (50ft landing craft) wurden ab 1942 im zweiten Weltkrieg von der amerikanischen und der britischen Marine zum Transport von leichten Panzerwagen und Materialien von den Schiffen zu den Stränden eingesetzt. Diese Landungsboote konnten bis zu 30 Tonnen Fracht transportieren und kamen unter anderem bei der Landung der alliierten Streitkräfte in der Normandie (D-Day) zum Einsatz. Der gut 640.000 mal gefertigte Geländewagen gilt als das am meisten für den Kriegeinsatz gebaute Fahrzeug. Das robuste, leichte und allradangetriebene Fahrzeug kam an allen Kriegsschauplätzen der alliierten Streitkräfte zum Einsatz. Der Wagen wurde oft zur Versorgungs- und Transportzwecken von Landungsbooten an die von der Truppe eingenommenen Küstenabschnitte abgesetzt.

On 6 June, 1944, the Allies landed in Normandy. This famous day is commonly known as D-Day. In 2014, the 70th anniversary of this day, which was so crucial to the outcome of the war, will be celebrated.

From 1942 in the Second World War, a good 8,000 of the LCM 3 (50ft landing craft) were used by the American and British navies to transport light armoured cars and materials from ship to shore. These landing craft could carry up to 30 tonnes of cargo and were used for landing the Allied forces in Normandy (D-Day). With a total build of at least 640,000, the Off-Road Vehicle is the vehicle most used in warfare. This robust, light and all-wheel-drive vehicle was used by the Allied forces in all theatres of war. The vehicle was often brought ashore from landing craft to the coastal areas taken by the troops for supply and transport purposes.
