Airbus A380 New livery

Am 18. Januar 2005 fand einer der wichtigsten Meilensteine des Airbus A380-Programms statt. Das erste durchgehende Doppeldeck-Flugzeug der Welt wurde offiziell zum ersten Mal in einer Zeremonie in der „Jean Luc Lagardere“-Endmontagehalle in Toulouse, Frankreich der Welt gezeigt. Diese Veranstaltung besuchten mehr als 4.500 Gäste. Der Start des A380 markierte auch die Einführung des neuen Airbus-Farbdesigns, das erstmals seit dem A310 geändert wurde. Der A380 ist das erste Flugzeug das dieses neue Airbus-Design trägt. Es reflektiert nicht nur den gegenwärtigen Marktauftritt von Airbus, sondern auch seinen zukünftigen Status als führender Flugzeughersteller. Die Reichweite von 8.000 nm/15.000 km erlaubt dem 555sitzigen A380 Passagierflugzeug zwischen Europa und Asien non-stop zu fliegen. Airbus hat die Flugleistung und Wirtschaftlichkeit des A380 durch den Einsatz modernster Technologien bei Systemen und Werkstoffen optimiert, gleichzeitig wird an Bord beispielloser Komfort geboten. Mit der Indienststellung des A380 sind 2006 erste Passagierflüge vorgesehen. Der A380 landete am 27. April 2005 um 14:23Uhr Ortszeit (12:23Uhr UTC) in Blagnac (Internationaler Flughafen Toulouse, Frankreich) nach erfolgreichem Abschluss des ersten Fluges der 3 Stunden und 54 Minuten dauerte. Das mit der Kennung F-WWOW registrierte Flugzeug wird von vier Rolls Royce Trent 900 Triebwerken angetrieben. Das Airbus-Flaggschiff für das 21. Jahrhundert erhob sich zu seinem Erstflug mit einem Gewicht von 421 Tonnen in den Himmel dem bisher höchsten Startgewicht eines Verkehrsflugzeugs überhaupt. Während dieses Jungfernfluges wurden alle Haupttestpunkte erfüllt, gleichzeitig markierte er den Anfang einer längeren Testflugphase, die fünf A380 einschließt. Der Umfang und die Härte dieser Boden- und Flugtestprogramme werden den A380 zu einer übergangslosen Indienststellung führen.

Airbus A380 New livery

One of the key milestones in the Airbus A380 programme took place on 18th January 2005. The world's first full-length twin-deck aircraft was officially revealed to the world for the first time at a ceremony to be held in the Jean-Luc Lagardere Final Assembly Line hall at Toulouse, France. More than 4,500 guests attended this event. The A380 reveal will also mark the launch of Airbus' new livery. The change in livery, the first since the A310. The A380 is the first aircraft to display the company's new colours that reflect not only Airbus' current market position but also its ambitions to pursue aviation excellence long into the future. The 555-seat A380 passenger aircraft has a range of up to 8,000nm/15,000km, allowing it to fly non-stop between Europe and Asia. Incorporating the most advanced technologies available in this decade, it will be the most fuel efficient and environmentally friendly airliner ever built, while offering unequalled levels of passenger comfort and cargo carrying capability. First passenger operations are scheduled to begin in 2006 when the A380 is due to enter service. The first A380 to take to the air landed at Blagnac international airport in Toulouse, France on 27th April 2005 at 14.23 local time (12.23h UTC) after successfully completing its first flight that lasted three hours and 54 minutes. Carrying the registration F-WWOW, the aircraft is powered by four Rolls Royce Trent 900 engines. For its first flight, the A380 took off at a weight of 421 tonnes / 928,300 lbs, the highest ever of any civil airliner to date. This maiden voyage, during which all primary flight test objectives were met, marks the beginning of a rigorous test flight campaign involving five A380. The scope and rigour of the A380 ground and flight test programme should also prepare for a smooth entry into service.
